Organised by

Iran Heritage Foundation

Date

Wednesday 14th December 2016, 6.30-9.00pm

Venue

Asia House, 63 New Cavendish Street, London W1G 7LP

Description

Join the Iran Heritage Foundation for the final event of the year in anticipation of Shab-e Yalda, when the days once again start to get longer after the winter solstice. This will be a social evening, with a musical performance by Vida Edalat, accompanied by the Saba Ensemble, followed by a reception with drinks and Persian nibbles.

Biography

Vida Edalat studied music from an early age and graduated from the Honarestan Alieh Moseghi in Tehran. She has studied and worked with great maestros including Faramarz Payvar, Mohammad Heidari and Hossein Tehrani. Vida was previously a member of the National Orchestra of Persian classical music and has been teaching Santour and Tomback for over 40 years. She has performed worldwide at various events, international festivals and concerts in prestigious venues, including at the British Museum, the Victoria & Albert Museum, and the British Library.

She established the Saba Ensemble 12 years ago which comprises a group of 3-5 musicians performing and promoting classical Persian music.
